Business Coal Mining
Company Status PMDN

Financial Performance: Net income in 2009 increase significantly to IDR 5.006 trillion compare to previous year income amounted IDR 2.207 trillion. This is due to increase in net sales from IDR 24.689 trillion to IDR 36.157 trillion.

Brief History: Adaro Energy was established under the name PT Padang Karunia, a limited liability company established in Indonesia in 2004. PT Padang Karunia changed its name to PT Adaro Energy Tbk and was listed on the Indonesian Stock Exchange on July 16, 2008 raising Rp 12.2 trillion (US$1.3 billion). The Company's vision is to be the largest and most efficient integrated coal mining and energy company in South East Asia.

Adaro Energy is currently Indonesia's second largest thermal coal producer, which operates the largest single-site coal mine in the Southern hemisphere, and is amongst the lowest cost coal producers. The coal characteristics are sub-bituminous, medium heat value and ultra-low pollutant coal, with total resources of 3.5 billion tonnes (JORC Compliant 2009). Because of its environmental characteristics, Adaro's coal is trademarked as "Envirocoal" and has proven global acceptance among blue-chip power utilities. Prices are either fixed in annual price negotiations, or set with reference to index prices, while costs are managed effectively due to its vertically integrated business model.

While Adaro continues to focus on its core coal mining business, it has acquired and developed businesses along the coal supply chain in order to have greater control over the coal supply chain, ensure healthy competition around its operations, better ensure that its expansion plans are met and reduce operating costs from pit to port. These businesses, which include coal trading, contract mining services, barge and shiploading services, power generation and coal infrastructure and logistics, have made Adaro vertically integrated in support of its coal mining operations.
